Seminar Notice

Dr Miqdad Asaria

Research Fellow

Centre for Health Economics, University of York, UK

will deliver a lecture on

That's NICE but will it Work in India? Challenges and Opportunities for Using Cost-effectiveness Analysis in Healthcare Resource Allocation in India

Abstract:-

The presentation starts by introducing the theory of cost effectiveness analysis and describe how these methods have been used for health technology assessment in the UK National Health Service as implemented by the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE). It will then begin to explore the various challenges and opportunities for using such techniques in the Indian healthcare system and more generally in the journey towards universal health coverage in low and middle income countries taking into account the much greater importance placed on issues of health equity and financial impoverishment in these settings.
