

IDSK invites applications for 7-day workshop on Writing the City: a multidisciplinary perspective on urban studies
2nd to 9th July 2024

Urban studies have emerged as one of the leading areas of global scholarship in recent times. The multi-faceted histories of cities have brought in new categories of understanding urbanization. As a field of humanities and social science, the urban has been a focus of study across disciplines. In this seven-day workshop we explore different methodologies through which the urban has been/can be studied and move towards a possible interdisciplinarity of approach. Through the vantage point of different disciplines, the workshop offers a foray into a variety of methodologies — both qualitative and quantitative. Our aim is to introduce the city as a site of theory and practice by incorporating lectures by scholars and presentations by creative practitioners. The workshop will also provide an opportunity to explore the Salt Lake archives – an initiative by IDSK.

Applications are invited from PhD scholars, post-doctoral fellows and faculties in colleges and universities in Humanities and Social Science. Interested applicants should apply with their CVs and 500 words on how the workshop will benefit them to writingthecityidsk@gmail.com by 17th May 2024. Successful applicants will be notified by end of May. There is no application fee. The fees for workshop participation for selected candidates is Rs. 4500/- (Rupees four thousand five hundred only).